Nicholas Ferrar
Patent Attorney and Director

Nic joined the patent profession in 2003, training at a London-based private practice. Since that time Nic has worked for the UK's largest firm of Patent Attorneys and also gained experience in industry, at Rolls-Royce plc, where he both handled a patent prosecution caseload and advised the business on commercial Intellectual Property matters.

Nic Ferrar holds a Masters of Mechanical Engineering degree from the University of Leeds and qualified as a Patent Attorney in 2007. Maintaining a focus on supporting UK-based manufacturers, Nic opened Adamson Jones's Leicester office in 2016 and has experience of a wide variety of technical subject matter across all engineering disciplines. Nic also maintains a strong interest in software-related innovations in the fields of design, analysis, control, diagnostics and health monitoring.

Nic is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Patent Attorneys, a member of that Institute's Computer Technology Committee, and a Member of the European Patents Institute. Nic has delivered numerous seminars on Intellectual Property protection and strategy and has written in-house IP training courses for Rolls-Royce plc.
