

Atmospheric Icing Facility

Atmospheric Icing Facility

These tunnels allow investigation into atmospheric icing effects in areas ranging from aviation, shipping and ground transport to power lines, wind turbines, buildings and vegetation.

The two tunnels, each with a different capability, can be used to investigate the growth, structure and shedding behaviour of ice on structures right down to the impact of an individual water droplet.