

Andrew Tatrai

Andrew Tatrai is a Certified Practicing Risk Manager (CPRM), the internationally recognised certification for risk management) with a Masters in Risk Management (Monash University) providing the highest levels of certification in implementing risk management principles. He is currently completing his PhD (Management) in security crowd management technology and has long term experience in risk, safety and security strategy as a risk consultant and is internationally recognised for application of risk and safety to public facility and mass gathering environments, including formerly as a lecturer in the Business Faculty of the University of Technology Sydney.