

Revolutionizing Energy Systems: AI and Blockchain

30 January 2020

Alex Mahon

Head of Analytics for UK Power Networks

Alex is the Head of Analytics for UK Power Networks covering all aspects of operational, asset, customer and financial performance. His previous experiences include international management consulting in the field of performance analytics, the water sector with Thames Water and Yorkshire Water and the development of next generation energy technologies in the form of the EU funded Energy2B programme. His education includes an undergraduate degree in Environmental Management, a postgrad in Urban Water Engineering and the Executive programme from the International Space University in Strasbourg.