Mandy Ridyard
Financial Director
Produmax

Mandy Ridyard is the owner of Produmax, a manufacturer of flight control components and assemblies for the global aerospace market.

In 3 years Produmax has transformed as part of the aerospace sector programme of “Sharing in Growth” and significant growth in turnover and productivity has been achieved. Mandy has driven a creative approach to employee engagement and continuous investment in both automation and digitalisation.

Now fulfilling the role of Financial Director at Produmax, she has previously held senior positions at Mars & Rank Hovis McDougall following an introduction to manufacturing through the graduate programme of MetalBox.

Knowledge transfer through sharing best practice, driving culture change through employee engagement and championing manufacturing, are her passions.
